REPORT OF THE SELECTMEN.

The Selectmen of the Town of Weymouth for the year ending March 16, 1868, respectfully submit the following Report, with the the annexed schedule of receipts and expenditures:

For the first time within the experience of either of the undersigned, it has, during the past year, fallen to our lot to lose by death, one of our board. On the eighteenth day of September last, Oliver Loud, Esq., departed this life. The suddenness of the summons which called him away added poignancy to the sorrow which his loss under other circumstances would have caused. Commencing his term of service with fairer prospects for long life than either of his colleagues, when it was scarcely half spent, and with but the briefest warning, he was removed from this scene of his varied duties and labors to a higher sphere of duty and of service.

In common with all his townsmen, and a widely extended circle of acquaintances, we mourn the loss of a wise, faithful, energetic officer; a patriotic and public-spirited citizen; an honest and Christian man;—but we also grieve for the sundering of those intimate ties of fellowship and fraternal regard which long association with our friend had twined about our hearts.

Of the appropriation of twelve thousand dollars made by the Town at their last annual meeting, for the purpose of erecting suitable monuments or other memorials in honor of those residents of Weymouth who died in the military and naval service of the United States during the late war, no part has, as yet, been paid out of the treasury; but a committee of the citizens of the First and Second School Districts have contracted for the erection, during the present season, of a such a monument, to be located near North Street, within the grounds of the North Weymouth Cemetery Association, and the contract for that purpose has been approved by this board. No other section of the Town has submitted to us any proposition for the erection of such memorial, and we are not aware that any measures to that end are in progress.

The condition of our streets during the past year has been such as to justly cause much complaint; and, although we have expended a considerable sum for repairs in addition to the appropriation of the Town, as appears by the schedule of expenditures, they are still far below the standard at which we had maintained them previously to the war. The great increase in the price of labor has rendered the sums appropriated during the last three or four years inadequate for the purpose of repairing the ordinary wear of average seasons; but the long drouths followed by heavy rains during the years 1865 and 1866, made large additional sums necessary for the repair of these unusual injuries.

Believing that the demands upon the treasury of the Town during the next year will be less than heretofore for other purposes, we recommend the appropriation for the repairs of roads of a sum larger by one thousand dollars than that voted last year; and we also beg leave to express our decided conviction that the election of a smaller number of Surveyors of Highways would promote the improvement of our roads.

During the year we have built the extension of Prospect Street at the Landing, and completed the building of Grant Street and of the street heretofore known as Prospect Street, at East Weymouth. And we recommend that the name of the last named street be changed to Shawmut Street.

We have also worked the widenings and straightenings of Commercial Street and of Pleasant Street, at East Weymouth, in accordance with the laying out of the County Commissioners, and have worked a portion of alterations in Pond and Pleasant Streets, in the village at South Weymouth. The expense incurred for these purposes appears in the annexed schedule.

On account of the omission of the Weymouth Iron Company to suspend work as usual during the last summer, it was found inconvenient to accomplish the raising and widening of the bridge on Commercial Street, near the house of Bela French, and we recommend that the subject be referred to the next board of selectmen.

Several new guide-boards have been erected, and the old ones remain substantially the same as last year.

Amos S. White, Esq., has been continued in charge of the Liquor Agency during the year, and has conducted the business in a proper manner, with the result shown by the annexed Report.

JAMES HUMPHREY,
Z. L. BICKNELL,
T. B. PORTER,
ABNER HOLBROOK,
Selectmen of Weymouth.

REPORT OF THE OVERSEERS OF THE POOR.

The Overseers of the Poor of the Town of Weymouth for the current year, respectfully submit the following Report:—

Mr. George W. Pratt retired from the position of Superintendent of the Almshouse, at the expiration of the year which he had nearly completed at the date of our last report, and Mr. Wilber C. Austin was engaged as his successor, and, with his wife, took charge of the House and Farm on the first day of April, at an annual salary of four hundred and fifty dollars. Both Mr. and Mrs. Austin brought to the discharge of their duties an ample and successful experience in the management of similar institutions, and their administration of affairs since their connection with our Almshouse has been highly satisfactory to the Overseers, being characterized by order, industry and a judicious economy, which has neither interfered with the comfort of the inmates or the improvement of the farm; and we regret their determination to retire from the position they now occupy at the close of their present year.

But one death has occurred in the House during the past year, and this was preceded by a very brief illness, while the general health and condition of the other inmates has been good, with the exception of a person admitted near the close of the year, who was then too seriously ill to admit the hope of his recovery.

A special effort has been made during the year for the improvement of the farm, and the results have fully justified the outlay made, and we believe that by persevering effort in the same direction, its products may be largely increased with the expenditure of a small annual sum of money.

The Almshouse and out-buildings have been thoroughly repainted during the year at an expense of two hundred and forty-five dollars and seventy-nine cents ; but this item has not been charged to the expense of the support of the poor, for the reason that an annual rent of three hundred dollars is charged to this account, which with the ordinary repairs and furnishing of the House, has heretofore constituted the amount charged for the use of farm and buildings. The number of paupers in the house at the commencement of the year was twenty-seven ; the whole number during the year (excluding transient inmates,) was thirty-four ; the number at the close of the year eighteen ; and the average number twenty-three and one-third. The cost per week for the support of the poor in the house has been one dollar and ninety-eight cents for each pauper.

The expense for assistance to the poor out of the Almshouse has been twenty-three hundred and eighty-eight dollars and thirty-one cents.

REPORTS

OF THE

School Committee and Superintendent,

FOR THE YEAR

1867-8.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The School Committee of Weymouth submit to the town the following Report:

Immediately after the annual meeting in March, the Committee proceeded to make the necessary school arrangements for the year. On account of the increased cost of board to teachers, it was deemed advisable to make some advance in their wages. To do this, and not exceed the appropriation made by the town, it was necessary to reduce the length of some or all of the schools. After much deliberation, the Committee adopted the following schedule of length of school terms and wages of teachers:—Male Grammar School in East Weymouth, 40 weeks; salary of teacher, $650. Female Grammar Schools, 38 weeks; wages, $9 per week. Intermediate Schools, 37 weeks; wages, $8 per week. Primary Schools, 36 weeks; wages, $7 per week.

The town having appropriated $1,250 for each of the High Schools, a sub-committee was appointed for each, to superintend the expenditure of the appropriation. In order that the teacher of the South Weymouth High School be retained, it was necessary to pay him a salary of $1,200. The appropriation being insufficient for this, the sum required to make up the deficiency was cheerfully contributed by friends of the school.

Complying with the instructions of the town, the Committee re-engaged the able and efficient Superintendent of the preceding year, and they are happy to bear testimony to the interest which he has manifested in the prosperity of our schools, and the industry and fidelity with which he has discharged the duties of his office. It is our belief that the schools have been greatly benefited by his labors. His monthly reports to the Committee have represented them as generally in a prosperous condition. It being impossible for him to examine each school on the last day of the term he has examined them as near the close as was practicable. But each school has closed with a public examination under the direction of one or more of the Committee.

The Committee recommend the re-appointment of Mr. F. M. Dodge as Superintendent. They also request the town to continue the two High Schools, being fully persuaded that if there be but one, a large part of those who need and desire the advantages of a High School must be deprived of them.

The Committee also recommend that the town make the appropriation for schools this year, one thousand dollars larger than the appropriation of last year. One reason for such an increase is the probable increase of the number of schools. As the town will be required at their next meeting, to vote upon the question of abolishing the school district system the the Committee respectfully yet earnestly request that they avail themselves of the opportunity which will then be offered them of doing an essential service to the cause of education, by substituting the town for the district system.

Two vacancies have occurred in the Board during the year. One was caused by the death of Oliver Loud, a highly respected and efficient member of the Committee. We lament his death not only as a loss to this Board, but also to the town which he was faithfully serving, in other important capacities with an assiduity too unremitting when prostrated by the disease which terminated his life.

J. F. Kilton was chosen to fill this vacancy. The other vacancy was occasioned by removal from town and resignation of Geo. M. Reed, and was filled by the election of J. W. Loud.

For particular information in regard to the schools the Committee refer to the subjoined Report of the Superintendent.

In behalf of the Committee,

J. P. TERRY, Chairman.

J. H. PRATT, Secretary.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the School Committee of Weymouth :

GENTLEMEN,—The Annual Report concerning the progress and condition of the several schools, is respectfully submitted.

Standing on the verge of the departing year, it becomes us not only to recognize a superintending Providence, but to acknowledge our obligations and to profit by all of our experiences. So far as our observations and experiences teach us that the policy adopted is judicious, it is the part of wisdom to continue it, while an opposite conclusion demands a reform.

In reviewing the history of our schools for the past year, in scrutinizing the labors of those to whom we have committed the mental culture of the young, it is believed that there are evidences of movements in the right direction,—real progress. We may indulge the modest hope that the policy inaugurated by the supervisors of our school, the suggestions made and the encouragements offered, added to the commendable efforts of our teachers—who have labored with much zeal and fidelity in their respective situations—have aided in producing marked improvements. Appreciating this progress, we would not live in the past, bemoaning its imperfections, or become inactive from a satisfaction with the present, but would regard present acquisitions as incentives to make additional progress. This we would be encouraged to do from considerations of vital importance, fully, persuaded that no proposition is more patent than that the structure of our free institutions is based on the intelligence of the masses.

The number of scholars belonging to the Public Schools in summer, was 1,723 ; Number in winter, 1,730. The number of teachers employed was 36, of whom 33 were females. Of the 33 females employed, 26 belong in this town.

TEXT-BOOKS.

Living in this progressive age, something more than an occasional reference to the books used by the young seems appropriate. Some of our books are either antiquated, or too great a familiarity with them has rendered a change desirable. The necessity for a change applies especially to Readers and Geographies. More system is needed, more uniformity, less variety.

ATTENDANCE.

Some of our schools suffer from the frequent and, in many cases it is believed, unnecessary absence of the pupils; and the blame for this, is in a great degree due to the parents, who, perhaps, fully understand the case, but do not sufficiently reflect upon the injury they are inflicting upon their own children and upon the community, by allowing them to be irregular in attendance at school. The time usually allotted to the education of the young is sufficiently short even when sedulously devoted to mental culture, and the necessity sufficiently urgent for intellectual power and vigor, to forbid imperatively any wanton disregard of these advantages. The duties of citizenship in this age demand unusual mental vigor, breadth of attainments and information. When this absence is the result of carelessness or indifference it is indeed reprehensible, and scarcely less so when it has a financial bearing. Many boys at the age of nine or twelve years, are taken from the schools that they may earn a few dollars, a sum too insignificant to compensate for the loss sustained by an absence of one-fourth of the time. While children labor for their parents, there is an idea of mutual dependence and mutual obligations, a positive claim on that parent for intellectual food and growth as much as for bodily sustenance. No parent has a right to coin mental powers into dollars and cents, when a respectable position in society, obtained by education, depends upon school advantages.

DISCIPLINE.

The welfare of society and the success of the school alike demand good order, that an intelligent head or agent of society shall mould this school-community, control and direct it, standing in the place of and vested with the powers of the parent.

The absence of such control and power is synonymous with failure, a good school without discipline being an utter impossibility. Frequently the failure of the teacher in discipline depends upon the freaks or caprice of a single individual, active for evil, while the majority remain passive. Every citizen has an influence and it is his duty to exert it in favor of good order, to co-operate with the teacher in promoting the general good.

Every child in the school-room, in some degree reveals the condition of the home discipline. Those accustomed at home to obey, will do so at school; while those who discipline their parents, will be displeased and restive when teachers refuse to obey. Those "born to rule," as they suppose, do not easily resign their prerogatives, not being able to see why teachers are superior to their parents, and why they should not be equally yielding and obedient.

It sometimes happens that large and evil-disposed pupils assume an independence of female teachers, simply because such teachers are physically incompetent to overpower them, or unwilling to engage in such unnatural personal conflicts. When such scholars behave badly from such unworthy motives—too often encouraged at home—and when these parents are the first to complain of the inferiority of such schools, it is difficult to find language sufficiently reprehensible to meet the case. The zeal of such a teacher, her ability to instruct, her fidelity, industry, conscientiousness, her willingness to labor for the good of her charge, are not appreciated, while she may be deemed unfit for her position, simply because she has not the "physical force" to subdue such incorrigible waywardness, and conquer the maliciously obstinate. This matter demands consideration and entire correction.

It is admitted that teachers, like others, may err in judgment and fail in execution; but the good of society demands that we should lean to the side of good order, favor restraint, even so far as to regard trifling errors and mistakes of teachers with charity. A proper sympathy between the parents and teachers would remove, it is believed, most of the existing evils. It cannot be doubted but that an improved home training would be attended by a corresponding improvement in the schools; the idle, vicious and disobedient at home, being the refractory scholars. It is also true that the great variety of dispositions and habits, the numerous shades of character, &c., correspond with the different home influences, the varied impressions received, all modified by diverse views of family government. As a necessary result, some parents are opposed to corporal inflictions, some to detention after school hours, and still others to all kinds of punishment whatever. Now what course shall the teacher pursue under circumstances so embarrassing? Fortunately for her, the law comes to her aid, which places her in precisely the same relation to her scholars, while under her care, as the parent sustains to his child; and empowers her to inflict the same kind and degree of punishment, as a judicious parent would inflict upon his child under the same or similar circumstances. It is no uncommon occurrence for parents to confess their inability to control their children or to enforce obedience. Yet some of these very individuals who are unable to govern even their own children, seem to expect the teacher to be able to discipline perfectly, and instruct thoroughly, without aid or sympathy, a large school, composed, in part, of such materials, while any degree of punishment, however slight, for idleness or disobedience, is made the subject of grievous complaint.

Much evil, also, arises from the fact, that some parents trust too implicitly to the statements of their children. A child is guilty of violating the rules of the school and is properly punished for the offence. At home, he tells his tale of wrongs and abuse which have been inflicted upon him, and all for "no fault of his own." The parent believes the report, his sympathies are excited, and without further investigation proceeds to apply to the teacher the severest epithets, and this, too, in the presence of his child. Thus, lasting injury is done to the child, and the usefulness of the teacher essentially impaired. Let parents reflect upon this matter and resolve to perform their duty faithfully, and the necessity for punishment would soon cease to exist in our schools.

We ask them to feel a personal responsibility; to co-operate with their servants in securing good order; to encourage them by frequent visits; to learn the real condition of these "colleges for the people;" to condemn no school without such visits; and it is believed that prejudices will be removed, our schools benefited, and the general good be promoted.

FIRST DISTRICT.

GRAMMAR.—During the summer term and one week of the fall, this school was taught by Miss Julia A. Packard, a lady of excellent attainments, and thoroughly qualified in the general management of the school. Her classes were well disciplined in the highest sense of the term; the teacher having the happy faculty of securing the respect and confidence of her pupils, on which pleasant relations, mutual regard and affection are based. In consequence of having “her task so well begun as to be half done,” the school was rendered, as a necessary result, mutually pleasant and profitable. There seemed to be a constant emulation among the pupils to see which, by merit, could secure the largest share of her approbation.

At the time alluded to, she was compelled by failing health to vacate her position, very much to the regret of her school and patrons. Her place was supplied by Mr. Clarence Raymond, a young man of good literary qualifications, but without experience as a teacher. In visiting his school, it was evident that he did all in his power to advance his pupils; he did not, however, succeed in enforcing a sufficiently strict discipline, under existing circumstances. After having charge of the school a few weeks, he resigned, and was succeeded by Miss Ellen M. Eames, who was zealous in her efforts to promote the highest mental development of those under her charge. Miss Eames performed her duties in a faithful and conscientious manner, and although her efforts were in some degree counteracted by the insubordination of a few of the pupils, and a want of co-operation on the part of some of the parents, still, the scholars generally applied themselves industriously, and made fair improvement.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—George Hunt, Fred Lincoln, Frances Stowell, Bessie B. Lovell, Abbie E. Burrell, Eliza W. Stowell. Summer term:—La Forest Lincoln, Lizzie E. Holbrook, Mary L. Cleverly, Mary E. Pratt, Cora Cleverly, L. Agnes Terry, Ella Bicknell, Laura E. French, Ella Burrell.

INTERMEDIATE.—This department continued under the charge of the former teacher, Miss Maria F. Burrell, and not only maintained its former position, but made advances. The teacher labored hard to overcome an apparent listlessness and indifference which prevailed among the scholars. In this she was, in a good degree, successful. While most of the pupils manifested a proper spirit, a few seemed to come to their allotted tasks with reluctance; yet it is believed that this, in a good measure, was overcome by the persistent efforts of the teacher. The lessons were thoroughly learned and intelligently recited during the year, and judging from the readiness of the recital at the examination, well reviewed. The progress was good, generally, and in some cases especially marked.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—Anna Cushing, Mary R. Burrell, Carrie G. Bartlett, Oliver J. Burrell. Summer term:—Fannie M. Burrell, Arrie L. Barnes, Emily F. Huntress, Arthur D. Den Broeder, Lester M. Pratt, Lizzie M. Thomas.

PRIMARY.—Miss Alice M. Cushing, the former teacher of this school, a beginner two years since, has added experience to her former zeal and general acquirements. The school is one of the largest of its class, demanding tact and ability in its management, yet it was well governed, the teacher being well adapted to her situation, controlling her charge more by her dignity, decision and uniform kindness than by a mere resort to physical force. The examination of the school afforded ample evidence of the teacher's industry and tact in the instruction of her pupils. The exercises in reading, spelling, geography and mental arithmetic, were not only prompt, but correct and very satisfactory.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—Abner Stowell, Lester Blanchard. Summer term:—Martha Huntress, Nellie Kennison, Eliza Burrell, Abbie Pratt, Winnie Kennison, Willie French, Frank Cushing.

SECOND DISTRICT.

MIXED GRAMMAR.—The previous teacher, Miss Eliza French, was retained in this school, where she has been a sufficient time already to have "defined her position" as a successful teacher. The harmonious relations existing here, the mutual sympathy and esteem between teacher and scholars, rendered the duties of the school-room pleasant and profitable.

In consequence of its ungraded character and the size of the school it was considered necessary to appoint an Assistant. Accordingly Miss Lizzie C. Pratt was employed to assist during the afternoon session, and proved herself to be a successful and faithful teacher. This aid allowed Miss French greater opportunity for the "drill" of the more advanced classes; the results of which were decidedly manifest. The examination gave excellent satisfaction. In reading and spelling very marked improvement was noticeable. The classes in mental arithmetic were prompt and accurate. In written arithmetic the various rules and principles were distinctly stated, and questions solved upon the blackboards with facility. The recitations in grammar and geography were very satisfactory.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—Carrie C. Dunbar, Lottie E. Briggs. Summer term:—Nancy J. Bates, Sarah E. Vinal, Fannie Wildes, Carrie E. Stoddard, Orianna J. Dame, Frederic W. Stoddard, Fletcher G. Blanchard, Wilfred A. Blanchard. Winter term:—George E. Tirrell, Rufus Bates, Charles C. Nash, Mary E. Bennett, Rebecca H. Nash.

THIRD DISTRICT.

GRAMMAR.—This school remained under the care of Mr. Franklin Jacobs until June, when he resigned to assume similar relations in another locality. In parting with him the patrons of the school felt that they had lost a faithful teacher, prompt, energetic and laborious; one alike capable as an instructor and disciplinarian. With such a feeling towards a retiring teacher, his successor almost necessarily labors at a disadvantage. The vacancy was filled by Mr. Otis L. Bonney, who is a most estimable young man, a good scholar, and a teacher of some experience. In visiting the school it was evident that the interest had departed with his predecessor, to some extent, at least. Mr. Bonney labored assiduously, and would have succeeded under ordinary circumstances, but the absence of necessary co-operation on the part of pupils and parents—so essential to success—made a demand upon him for an unusual amount of decision and energy—more than the exigencies produced. At the close of the fall term he resigned, and Mr. Jacobs, the former teacher, had charge of the school during the winter term, under whose judicious management the school prospered well. The appearance of the classes at the closing examination was very creditable.

Not absent during the summer term :—Nellie D. Nash, Lizzie A. Randall, Maria F. Orcutt, E. W. Sherman, Charles B. Cushing, Lovell B. Bates, Thomas Quilling, James D. Sherman. Winter term :—James D. Sherman.

INTERMEDIATE.—Miss Sarah J. Cushing was continued in this school till the close of the fall term, when failing health compelled her to retire, Mrs. Mary E. French being appointed her successor. Miss Cushing had already earned an enviable reputation in the past, and fully sustained it during her connection with the school.

Mrs. French, a former teacher in this district, proved a fortunate choice, sustaining the rank of the school and continuing to awaken new interest and zeal. Under her tuition the school was orderly, studious, progressive. Diligent, earnest, faithful herself in the performance of her appropriate duties, the influence of her example was highly salutary on her pupils. The examination at the close demonstrated what those having the school in charge had felt through the term, that the teacher had labored diligently and earnestly for the improvement of her scholars, and the pupils, in their recitations, showed that they had not misimproved or been indifferent to the instruction imparted.

Not absent during the summer term :—Henry L. Bowen, Arthur Powers, Herbert Burrell, Laura Goodspeed. Winter term :—Albert Lovell, Henry L. Bowen, Quincy Goodspeed, Laura Goodspeed, Hattie Raymond.

PRIMARY.—This school was continued another year under the care of Miss Augusta Raymond, with the encouraging tokens which might be expected from the positive character of the government and instruction with which the pupils were favored. The best of feeling evidently existed between teacher and pupils, while a proper degree of dignity and respect was preserved. The classes in reading gave evidence of carefulness in drill, and were well acquainted with punctuation.

Good progress was made in mental arithmetic. The spelling was excellent. Promptness in recitation, and good order, were prominent features at the examination. Not absent during the summer term:—Frank G. Fay, Frank Drew, Mary A. Pratt. Winter term:—Frank G. Fay, Ella F. Rice, Lydia B. Goodspeed.

PRIMARY.—The services of Miss Mary A. Healey were continued in this school, its relative condition being about the same as in the last Report. The order gradually improved, only occasional restlessness and inattention marring the general appearance. At the examination, the exercises in spelling, punctuation and mental arithmetic were prompt and quite satisfactory. The reading, in regard to inflection and articulation, may be improved by persistent effort.

INTERMEDIATE.—Pleasant Street.—The former teacher, Miss Hattie E. Bates, continued this school till failing health, in the fall term, compelled her to retire. Few teachers ever were more successful in awakening an interest in study, and imparting instruction, than Miss Bates. The vacancy was filled by Miss Ellen G. Parrott, who had formerly taught successfully in town, and whose reputation was established by other successful precedents. She quietly but determinedly governed and taught this school with marked ability. As a natural result, some of the pupils still adhered to the former teacher, becoming restive, almost denying the rights of the new teacher. Her ability and experience, however, soon brought order out of confusion, inducing her scholars to respect her authority. Both of these teachers did a good work, maintained good discipline, physical and mental. At the closing examination, while all of the classes appeared well, those in geography and written arithmetic were particularly good. Not absent during the year:—Mary Noonan. Summer term:—John McIntosh, Cornelius Duffy, Martin Duffy, Eddie W. Mills, Kate Moran.

PRIMARY.—Pleasant Street.—Miss Hannah Q. Bicknell taught this school till the close of the autumn, when she was obliged by ill health to resign. She is an energetic and faithful teacher, an excellent disciplinarian. She succeeded in interesting the pupils under her charge in the business of the school. At the commencement there was a great defect in the tone of voice, it being almost impossible to hear, even at a short distance. At the close of the fall term, however, the exercises were audible in any part of the room. The school, while under her care, appeared well. Her place was supplied by Miss Lavinia Totman, this being her first experience. The order was generally good, though it was evident that some of the pupils took advantage of her kind disposition, and failed to apply themselves as they should to their studies. The examination elicited a deficiency in reading. The spelling was good, and though most of the pupils gave evidence of improvement, there was a want of life necessary to success. Not absent during the year:—Annie Noonan.

FOURTH DISTRICT.

GRAMMAR.—At the commencement of the year, the grade of this school was changed from an Intermediate to a Grammar School, and was taught by Miss Susan B. Porter, who fully sustained her reputation as a teacher. She gave her undivided attention to her school, regarding the welfare of those under her care as a matter of vital importance. At the commencement, the school was in a very unsatisfactory state, an uninviting position to assume. Thoroughness in instruction, the adoption of method in every respect, prompt measures securing ready obedience, combined with industry and earnestness, soon produced their legitimate fruits. General progress was manifest. In arithmetic, the analytical method was adopted, while in grammar a familiarity with the rules was observable, with an encouraging ability in their application to parsing and analysis. The state of the school, as made manifest by the public examination, was highly satisfactory. It was clear that the pupils had been well instructed in all the branches pursued. In reading, especially in the distinct enunciation and correct pronunciation of words, in the prompt solution of questions in arithmetic, and in grammar, there was evidence of faithful effort on the part of the teacher, and of much improvement on the part of the scholars. At the close of the examination, the pupils presented their teacher with a valuable present as a token of respect, and a manifestation of their appreciation of her labors in their behalf. Not absent during the summer term:—Nettie W. Knights, Mary Riley.

PRIMARY.—This school continued till the close of the fall term, under the charge of its former teacher, Miss Emma A. Trott, whose fidelity and energy had given her the reputation of a successful teacher. Soon after the opening of the school, twenty-five of the pupils were transferred to the new room, which had been furnished for the Sub-Primary, these pupils constituting the nucleus of the Sub-Primary department.

Mrs. Hattie F. Lyon succeeded Miss Trott at the commencement of the winter term—the former teacher resigning—and entered upon her labors with commendable assiduity. Her success was especially good in teaching reading, which was decidedly improved, while the progress in arithmetic was not as satisfactory. Geography received some attention. The discipline was good. Both teachers are entitled to commendation. Not absent during the summer term:—Alice Knights, Willie Donovan, Henry Coolidge. Winter term:—Mary Coleraine.

SUB-PRIMARY.—This is a new school, established to relieve the Primary, which was too large. The school was given in charge of Mrs. Hattie F. Lyon, the number soon increasing from twenty-five to forty pupils, indicating the necessity for its establishment. They were quite young, but soon became much interested in their teacher, who was evidently as much interested in them and in her profession. More than usual attention was given to reading, spelling, and also to general exercises, with gratifying results.

At the close of the fall term, Mrs. Lyon was transferred to the Primary department, the vacancy being filled by Miss Arvella A. Smith, being her first experience. Her success, however, was all that we could reasonably ask. It was apparent that a good feeling existed between her and her charge, and that she governed well, firmness and mildness being characteristic features. The school was a success under both teachers. Not absent during the summer term:—S. Lizzie Hunt.

FIFTH DISTRICT.

GRAMMAR.—When Miss Alice R. Rogers, the teacher, took charge of this school it was in an excellent condition, and it seemed her design that it should fully sustain its former position. She labored incessantly for this purpose. Under her charge the school was well disciplined and instructed, the teacher being entitled to much credit for industry and zeal, the basis of success. Her success would have been even greater, aside from irregularity of attendance, especially of the boys, which appeared unnecessary, since in the lowest grades in this district, the attendance was excellent.

The classes in arithmetic made good progress both in reference to thoroughness and the topics studied. At first there was a want of interest in grammar, but later in the year a manifest improvement was noticeable. The closing examination evinced the fidelity and success with which the teacher had labored. In arithmetic, the rules and principles were clearly stated, and questions solved upon the blackboards with facility and correctness. While the classes in geography appeared well, the exercises in parsing, as well as the analysis of sentences by the two classes in grammar, were performed in a manner highly satisfactory and worthy of special commendation. Fair proficiency was apparent in reading and spelling. The exercises were interspersed with singing, speaking and the reading of compositions. We should do injustice not to pronounce this school a success.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—George W. Sargent, Maria Torry, Sarah Stowell, Minnie Locke, Mary Lowell, Alice Nash, Maria Holbrook, Emelie Blanchard, Emily White. Summer term:—Frank E. Sargent, George Lloyd.

INTERMEDIATE.—The grade of this school has been changed from Primary to Intermediate, while its former teacher, Miss Lizzie L. Cushing, was retained, as she deserved to have been. During the past year the school has fully maintained the high character it had previously sustained. The general deportment of the school, its good order without strenuous efforts, the willing obedience and constant attendance of the scholars, and the pleasant relations between pupils and teacher, all render it one of our most promising schools. The several classes were examined in all of the studies to which they had given attention, and gave unmistakable evidence of thoroughness. The reading and spelling of the different classes were uncommonly distinct and accurate. One noticeable feature in the reading of this whole school, was its deliberation. The recitations in arithmetic and geography were excellent.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—Herbert Merritt, Henry Lowell, Charles Loud, Howard Locke, Charles Nash, Clement Gardner, Arthur Gardner, Leavitt Tirrell, Jennie Tirrell, Lizzietta Dunbar, Lizzie Cady, Mary L. Sargent, Flora Barnard, Cora Lowell, Martha Barnard. Summer term:—Geo. Barnard, Oscar Clapp, Freddie Bayley, Allie Merritt, Willie Connor, James Connor, Addie Tirrell, Estelle Thomas, Clara Thomas, Nellie Moore, Lydia Cushing, Janie Loud, Annie Cady. Winter term:—Everett Gardner, Irving Sherman, William Bowker, Eddie Tirrell, Louis Estes, Ida Sherman, Louise Merritt, Abbie Dunbar, Irving White, Howard Locke.

PRIMARY.—This school has been under the charge of Mrs. Lydia T. Cushing for several years and has been well taught, the instruction being well adapted to so young a class of pupils, the success of the last year being in advance of the preceding. The attendance was excellent. The reading and spelling were highly satisfactory, especially the first class, the pupils being perfectly familiar with the elocutionary rules of the text-book. The second class in Colburn's Arithmetic studied the second, third and fourth sections, and the first class was examined in the sixth to the twelfth inclusive. Good progress was made in geography. The results of the examination were perfectly satisfactory. The room in which this school was kept, is entirely unsuitable for school purposes, being quite too small and poorly ventilated, in consequence of which the health of the pupils is jeopardized. There is a pressing demand for a suitable school-room.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—Nellie Nolan, L. Logue, Frank Cushing, Quincy I. Loud, Arthur Harris, Elmer Sargent, Cora Sargent. Summer term:—Geo. Stetson, Peter McCarty, Geo. Chambers, Geo. Murray, Jennie Stetson, Susan Thomas. Winter term:—Charles Stowell, Henry Lawler.

SIXTH DISTRICT.

GRAMMAR.—This school was taught by Miss Martha W. Seymour, a lady well adapted to the business of teaching, a good scholar and a thorough disciplinarian. The government was of the kind to secure obedience without much apparent effort, commanding the confidence and respect of her pupils. The method of instruction was thorough and practical. The classes in arithmetic were thoroughly drilled, the principles being practically applied, while good progress was made in grammar, the pupils understanding the application of the principles to parsing and analysis. Similar remarks apply with equal force to geography. In reading there was more than usual reference to the elementary sounds, with a consequent distinctness of enunciation. The examination of this school afforded ample evidence that the teacher had labored industriously and successfully, and that the pupils had appreciated and improved their privileges, making commendable proficiency in all of their studies. The concerted exercises in reading and singing were very praiseworthy, and the discipline and system of the school admirable.

Not absent or tardy during the summer term:—Sumner Holbrook, Willie Andrews, Charlie S. Pratt, Maria Tisdale.

PRIMARY.—This school has suffered to some extent, from the changes of the last two years. Miss Hattie H. Tirrell, who was appointed during the fall term of the preceding, was compelled by failing health, to retire near the close of the summer term, very much to the regret of her pupils and their parents. Miss Jennie Fairbanks was appointed her successor. Her acquaintance in this district and her experience well qualified her for her position, rendering success almost certain. Special attention was bestowed upon the reading and spelling, the examination indicating that the labor was well directed. Promptness and life were prominent features.

Recitations in arithmetic were good, and those in geography were excellent. The examination gave evidence that both teachers were faithful and highly successful, the school having made real progress.

SEVENTH DISTRICT.

GRAMMAR.—This school, during the whole year, was under the charge of Miss Carrie L. Lovett, whose experience and previous connection with it, resulted in good improvement and steady progress. The school was well taught and governed, and its good regulations were accompanied with that skilful and thorough mental training which is essential to all true education. The proficiency made during the year demonstrates the fact that the teacher labored with commendable assiduity and fidelity. Comparing the examination with that of the last year, the progress was very decided and satisfactory. There was much to be approved in the reading, though, in some instances, more attention was needed in respect to distinct enunciation and correct pronunciation. In spelling and defining the pupils were prompt and accurate. The classes in arithmetic gave unmistakable evidence of a practical understanding of this important branch of common school study. Similar proficiency was manifested by the classes in geography. The recitations in grammar were not as good as the other exercises.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—Charlie A. Terry, Alice Howe. Summer term:—George Rockwood, Leslie Shores, Andrew Thomas, Susie Blanchard, Deborah Torrey, Ida Dunn, Ida Daggett, Mary Casey, Isabel Holbrook, Ella Farrar.

UPPER INTERMEDIATE.—This school continued through the year under the direction of Miss S. L. Vining, who fully realized the expectations which were warranted by the experience of the preceding year. Her industry, tact in managing, aptness of illustration, earnest labor, naturally secured the interest and regard of her pupils, resulting in satisfactory progress. The school assumed a mental plane higher than that of the past, the present intellectual power being a legitimate consequence of the labor performed. The several classes of this school were examined, so far as time would permit, in all the principal subjects to which they had given attention, and gave good satisfaction to those having the school in charge. The study of grammar, which is generally too much neglected in schools of this grade, received special attention, and excellent results were realized.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—Susan M. Loud, Lizzie White, Arthur Littlefield, Fannie Sprague; Summer term:—Alice Blanchard, Ella Beaulieu, Louisa Poole, Jennie Reed, Freddie Lantz, Loring Tower.

LOWER INTERMEDIATE.—The grade of this school was changed from Primary to Intermediate, and continued under the care of Mrs. M. A. Morrill, the former successful teacher. The attendance was excellent; the average of the summer term being sixty-two and two-thirds, the whole number being sixty-six scholars. This was secured through the praiseworthy effort of both the teacher and parents. The distinguishing features of this school were order, attention to study, promptness and vivacity. Her management was energetic, and yet affectionate; so that, with good discipline and the most satisfactory progress in learning, there was an uninterrupted “era of good feeling” extending through the whole year, rendering the school-room a pleasant as well as a profitable place. At the examination, the school appeared exceedingly well. The reading and spelling, and the recitations in geography and arithmetic, together with the singing, were highly satisfactory.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—N. A. Bean, L. A. Lantz, Henry A. Loud, Frank E. Farrar, W. A. Howe, W. H. Rockwood, V. C. Daggett, Everett Loud, H. T. Burrell. Summer term:—C. E. Loud, J. A. Casey, A. L. Blanchard, C. C. Cloutman, A. Armstrong, C. S. Curtiss, Emily P. Shaw, Isa Dora White, Cynthia S. Reed, Annie L. Shaw, S. A. Graves, Celia Mellen, M. B. Linfield. Winter term:—E. Sherman, H. B. Derby.

PRIMARY.—This school was taught through the year by Miss Mary E. Allen, who fully sustained her former reputation as a faithful teacher, thorough, energetic and earnest. The school, which was large, was in all respects well conducted. As children become old enough to understand the purposes and ends of study, it is of less importance that their daily duties should be directed by the same person from one year to another; but young children, from the fact that they have no internal motives to exertion, depend more upon the personal influence of their teacher to stimulate their efforts. A Primary teacher, therefore, must win the entire respect and love of her young charge, before she can accomplish her full work, and this was evidently the case with Miss Allen. At the examination, the recitations were prompt, and generally correct. While the reading and spelling were very satisfactory, the exercises in mental arithmetic were especially deserving of commendation.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—F. W. Howe, F. Curtis, F. E. Burrell, M. H. Marlow, H. N. Fogg, F. Lantz. Summer term:—J. M. Healey, M. L. Bates, M. A. Tirrell, A. Hickey, A. H. Derby, J. Weeks, S. L. Skinner, A. Deane, H. E. Daggett, E. F. Healey, E. McGuire, E. Madden, M. E. Loud, L. M. Paine, E. Vining, F. Loud, F. H. Thomas, H. W. Blanchard.

MIXED INTERMEDIATE.—Union Street.—This school not only changed its name, but its location, being formerly the Intermediate, transferred to the new house. Miss Ann Lois White was placed in charge of the school, and brought to her work some experience. It was evident that she labored earnestly, and intended to discharge her duties faithfully. In the matter of discipline, there seemed, at first, some little occasion for additional regard, but this temporary defect was soon removed. In consequence of the mixed character of the school, there was a large number of classes, so that a limited time to each class was unavoidable. In visiting the school, it was pleasing to witness the apparent pleasant feeling that existed between the teacher and her pupils, and the interest of the latter in their studies. The examination gave general satisfaction. In reading, very good improvement was noticeable. The spelling was excellent. The classes in arithmetic and geography were familiar with those parts which they had studied, while in grammar the progress was not quite as apparent.

Not absent during the summer term:—Eddie Hayden, Willie Vining, J. F. Dunn, J. L. Torrey, Florence Holbrook.

MIXED INTERMEDIATE.—Pond Street.—It will be seen that this school received a prefix to its name since the last year. It was in charge of Miss Emma J. White, who found that it differed essentially from the Primary School in the same building which she formerly taught. The appearance of the room has been improved by painting and papering. The order during the summer and fall terms was good. A depreciation in this respect was observed during the winter, attended with a corresponding inattention to study, at least among some of the pupils. The attention of the teacher and the scholars was especially called to this point, and while subsequent visits gave proof of some improvement, yet the discipline was not, during the winter term, quite satisfactory.

At the closing examination most of the classes appeared well, especially those in geography. In arithmetic the examination was thorough, and, on the whole, satisfactory. The spelling was good, while the reading was too monotonous and indistinct. The writing books were very neat and exhibited commendable improvement.

Not absent or tardy during summer term:—L. E. Derby, S. E. Turner, H. M. Loud. Fall term:—L. E. Derby, A. H. Shaw, E. D. Turner, G. L. Paine, C. W. Turner, F. G. Derby, S. E. Turner, H. M. Loud, W. Gay, G. B. Turner. Winter term:—E. Doble, G. L. Paine.

MIXED INTERMEDIATE.—Randolph Street.—This school, under the care of Miss A. C. Orcutt, made commendable progress, the experience of the previous year being made available. Encouraging progress was made in the order of the school, which laid the foundation for improved mental discipline, both of which were maintained through the year. This improved discipline was specially manifest in the increased interest on the part of the pupils. The attendance during the summer and fall terms was very much better than for the corresponding time of the previous year, but in consequence of the fact that several pupils left the district, it was very much reduced during the last part of the winter term. At the closing examination, while a decided progress in reading was noticed, there is still occasion for greater improvement in pronunciation and inflection. Good proficiency was apparent in the study of geography and arithmetic, and still better in spelling and defining. The condition of the school, as shown by the examination, was very satisfactory.

Not absent during the summer term:—Fannie Hollis, Ida A. Hollis, Alice M. Hollis.

NINTH DISTRICT.

GRAMMAR.—Miss Lizzie C. Wood, who had the charge of this school during two terms of the preceding year, retained her place, very much to the satisfaction of the patrons and those having the care of the school. To say that it maintained its former high position is, perhaps, sufficient commendation. Excellent management, combined with large experience, good sense, energy, tact and a love of the work, will scarcely fail of securing success. More punctuality of attendance on the part of some of the pupils, would have secured still greater results. In visiting the school it was gratifying to observe that very great care was taken with the reading, in which a very decided improvement was made. In arithmetic the pupils were able to demonstrate the correctness of the solution of their arithmetical problems with analytical exactness, furnishing unmistakable evidence that they were trained to habits of thought and self-reliance. In grammar the two classes made excellent proficiency, their interest in this study increasing through the year. The classes in geography have, in connection with their regular recitations, attended to map-drawing, the practice of which is trebly advantageous, in promoting mechanical neatness, mathematical correctness and a greater familiarity with the country delineated than could be acquired from any mere description in a text-book. Some attention was given to declamation and composition with gratifying results. The examination was perfectly satisfactory.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—E. F. Sherman, Annie D. Smith, Willie Hancock, Charles F. Bailey. Summer term:—Nannie P. Crocker, Lizzie J. Baker, Sarah M. Dalton, E. S. Williams, Eliza E. Walker. Winter term:—Nannie P. Crocker, Henry A. Richards. Fall term:—Lizzie J. Baker, Sarah M. Dalton, Hannah Ward.

UPPER INTERMEDIATE.—This school was continued under the charge of Miss Mary W. Wood, until the middle of the fall term, when ill health necessitated her to vacate her position. The condition of the school during her connection with it was highly satisfactory. Miss Wood was followed by Mrs. Hannah E. Miller, a faithful and experienced teacher. The change, of course, was a delicate one; but no labor was spared in carrying on the work which had been so well begun. At first, some slight opposition was manifested by some of the pupils, but promptness and decision on the part of the teacher soon convinced all that her word was law, and that obedience was advisable. Mrs. Miller is perfectly at home in the school-room, thoroughly qualified for her position, both as an instructress and governess, and fully sustained the former reputation of the school. Her method of instruction was critical, thorough and systematic, having more regard for quality than quantity. The discipline was excellent. The closing examination evinced the fidelity and success with which both teachers had labored.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—Carrie Bailey, L. Houghton, O. Bates, W. Burrill. Summer term:—Alberta Pray. Fall term:—Mary Rogers, Lizzie Richards, Willie Binney, Charles Merrill, Louis Chignon, Walter Trott. Winter term:—Mary Rogers, Maggie Connor, Willie Binney, Charles Merrill.

LOWER INTERMEDIATE.—Miss Emma J. Baker, who commenced teaching in this school during the preceding year, was continued in charge of it, adding to her previous progress. She labored indefatigably for the success of her pupils, and with gratifying results. The school was well taught and governed. More attention was bestowed upon the reading than formerly, and decided improvement was noticeable. Frequent repetitions, correction of mistakes by the pupils as well as the teacher, remarks upon the proper pauses, tone and inflection, characterized this exercise. The closing examination was highly satisfactory. While all the classes appeared well, those in mental arithmetic and spelling were especially deserving of commendation. In all of the recitations a very decided improvement in promptness was apparent. The order and singing were excellent.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—Annie M. Stoddard. Summer term:—Lizzie M. Phillips, Amos C. Day. Fall term:—Nellie C. Crocker, Eddie E. Loud, Walter Sanbourne, Bayard T. Reed. Winter term:—George C. Farnsworth, Walter Sanbourne.

UPPER PRIMARY.—The former teacher, Miss Adalaide A. Keeler, was continued in this school. The success of this teacher was even more satisfactory than during the preceding year. The good order, life and promptness of the past, were continued, while a still greater advancement in the studies was observed. The two Primary Schools have been benefited by the establishment of a Sub-Primary department, by which a better classification was secured. Miss Keeler has the happy faculty of inspiring her pupils with an interest and enthusiasm, which lead them "to work together for good." The examination was perfectly satisfactory. The reading was very correct, enunciation distinct, and sufficiently loud to be easily heard. The spelling and defining were excellent. The recitations in arithmetic and geography were generally correct, always prompt and distinct.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—Henry Burrell, Charles Haynes, Carrie Russ, Carrie Stoddard. Summer term:—Eddie Conway, Etta Kingman, Mary Carey, Annie Foss, Grace Bicknell, Olivine Bedour, Mary Dumphy, Ellen Ward, Julia Nelligan, Annie Foye. Winter term:—Lizzie Fairbanks, Willie Nelligan.

LOWER PRIMARY.—Fortunately for this school, the former teacher, Miss Amey M. Adlington, was continued during the year. The withdrawal of twenty-four of the youngest pupils from this school enabled the teacher to raise the grade somewhat, and the advantages resulting from the division of the school were manifest in the decided progress of the pupils, and the increased interest taken by them in their studies. The school was very much benefited in consequence of the improved accommodations furnished. The attendance in this as well as in some of the other schools in this district was much interrupted during the last part of the winter term in consequence of the whooping cough, which prevailed among the children. At the examination the school appeared exceedingly well, and the teacher had no occasion for any fears as to falling below even a high standard established for similar occasions.

Not absent or tardy during the summer term:—Olivine White, Annie L. Whiting. Winter term:—Frank Bedour.

SUB-PRIMARY.—At the opening of the two Primary Schools, it was evident that the pupils of this district could not be accommodated without the establishment of another school. A room was accordingly provided, and a portion of the pupils placed under the charge of Miss Lizzie Foye. Although in her own district, and her first effort in teaching, she was very successful. The tender age of her pupils rendered patience a needed virtue. She established order, gained the confidence of the scholars by kindness, and through her happy method of teaching, they were well advanced in all the exercises and studies appropriate to their years. The school was a success.

Not absent during the summer term:—John Nelligan. Fall term:—Harry Loud. Winter term:—Eddie Condrick, Lyman Williams.

TENTH DISTRICT.

INTERMEDIATE.—This school was under the care of Miss Nancy Tirrell through the summer and fall terms, when she found it necessary to resign her situation on account of impaired health. Miss Tirrell entered upon her work and prosecuted it with a most praiseworthy devotion. She labored faithfully and perseveringly to secure the mental development of those intrusted to her care. The discipline, in the summer term, was quite satisfactory; but later there was some depreciation in this respect, yet fair progress was made in all of the studies. The vacancy was filled by the appointment of Miss Sophia W. Bowles, a lady well qualified for her position. She was accurate and thorough in her method of imparting instruction. Good order, generally secured by the mildest means, and a spirit of mutual kindness and confidence between teacher and pupils, together with a manifest desire for improvement on the part of the latter, were pleasing features. The school, under her direction, was in good condition, and made commendable progress. The examination was highly satisfactory.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—Anna N. Shaw, Arthur Cunningham. Summer term:—Josie H. Cunningham, Walter M. Dizer, Chas. F. Tirrell. Winter term:—Lizzie Cohan, Deziah Dyer, Ann M. Hewes, Frank Burrell, Willie Louney, Gustavus Pratt, Chas. Tirrell, John Whelan, Walter M. Dizer.

PRIMARY.—This school was taught through the year by Miss Fannie M. Burrell, who managed it in a very satisfactory manner. The patient and persevering efforts of the teacher were very perceptible in the excellent state of discipline and training she secured. Where all the children are so young, of course no very mature attainments are to be expected; but in all the exercises and studies appropriate to their years, they made very gratifying progress. At the closing examination the school appeared well. The reading was good, the spelling excellent. The recitations in mental arithmetic were very satisfactory. It was in all respects a good school.

Not absent or tardy during the year:—Virginia Burrell. Summer term:—Abbie Cushing, Ellen Fleming. Winter term:—Sarah W. Garey.

NORTH HIGH SCHOOL.

This school was continued under the charge of Mr. Nathan E. Willis, the teacher of the preceding year, until nine weeks before the close of the winter term, when he asked to be released from his engagement, which was granted. Commencing the year with a commendable desire to promote the welfare of his school, the teacher labored faithfully and successfully, securing real progress—mental growth and proficiency in scientific pursuits. The experiences of the past were rendered eminently useful, seizing upon every available instrumentality, every expedient to inspire all of his scholars with proper ideas of the dignity of mental culture and the advantages of scholastic attainments. As a result of determined effort and assiduous labor there was an increased general interest, attended by a manifest improvement in spirit, energy and promptness. We are able, therefore, to report this school as not only sustaining its former position, but as having made advances while in charge of Mr. Willis. The vacancy was filled by the appointment of Mr. Alfred Bunker. The short connection of the successor with the school will demand but a brief notice, since but little can be effected in so short a time. A change in teachers, especially when they adopt diverse methods of government and instruction, always produces a shock, more or less severe, in the school-room, and we are not surprised that this change produced temporary evils. Mr. Bunker entered upon his work with ample literary qualifications, and an earnest desire to discharge faithfully his duties. His method of instruction was critical and thorough. The school was well taught. In discipline there was a want of respectful obedience on the part of some of the scholars, to the authority of the teacher. The public examination of the school took place on Thursday, the 27th of February, which was largely attended by the parents of the pupils and friends of the school, all of whom manifested an unabated interest to the close. The exercises generally were very satisfactory, considering the circumstances. The examination of the classes in physiology and analysis was not as satisfactory as in other studies. The classes in the Latin reader, rhetoric and physical geography reflected much credit upon their teachers from their familiarity with what they had done in these branches of study. The scholars in arithmetic, algebra and geometry were clear and prompt in the statement of principles, and generally correct in their demonstrations upon the blackboards. The examination of the class in Cicero, and also the one in Cæsar, were highly satisfactory. There was a promptness in the application of grammatical principles, which could only have been acquired by patient study and careful training.

The graduating class, consisting of four members,—Miss Carrie A. Blanchard, Miss Mary S. Beals, Miss Alice M. Baker, Mr. Frank O. Nash—was examined in the first four books of Virgil's Æneid, French, mental philosophy and zoölogy, in all of which they fully met the expectations raised by their excellent examination the previous year.

The exercises of the day were varied by singing, reading of essays and declamation; and to the numerous company of friends and parents, the occasion was one of general satisfaction.

Not absent or tardy during the summer term:—Alexis H. French.

SOUTH HIGH SCHOOL.

This school, remaining under the direction of its former teacher, Mr. F. B. Gamwell, we are happy to report retains the animus of the former year. His thorough instruction, love of order, not only in the general management of the school, but in the method of instruction, ample resources of elucidation, entertaining method of presenting principles, in fine, his “apt-ness to teach," were all well adapted to promote a love for the acquisition of knowledge, and a zest for intellectual pursuits. The thorough and manly drill seemed combined with pleasurable mental recreations, securing a discipline of mind quite satisfactory, rendering the school-room a favorite resort to those who love to watch the development and growth of the mental powers.

The progress of the school during the last year was marked—of a decided character—highly gratifying to its supervisors. The examination at the close of the year was very satisfactory, and all present must have felt assured that this important department in the educational arrangements of the town, is doing its full share of the great work to be done by all the departments combined. In every school, there will be different degrees of diligence on the part of the pupils, and consequently, there will be inequality of attainments. Occasional deficiencies were therefore expected; in all the studies however, in which classes were examined, such evidence was furnished of thorough and accurate scholarship, as to show that these deficiencies were to be attributed, not to the want of faithful instruction, but to the want of due attention and effort on the part of the delinquents. The school is deserving of commendation in regard to progress in the natural sciences. The class in geometry completing the text-book, did themselves credit. In physical geography, physiology and grammar, very satisfactory progress was made. Success in these, as in other branches, was due, in part, at least, to the judicious use of the blackboard, as a means of illustrating principles, presenting truths through the medium of the eye, securing more accuracy and saving much valuable time, too often wasted in cumbrous verbal explanations. We cannot but commend this method of practically applying principles in the school-room. The Latin and French deserve particular remark. It was evident that there was a thorough drill, and that this department was made unusually disciplinary. There was no surface work, no superficial gliding through the text-books, but a familiarity with the important elements of the language, a good degree of accuracy in everything pertaining to accent, roots, derivation, conjugation, declension and pronunciation.

The graduating scholars, Miss Lucia C. Hewitt, Miss Lizzie L. Whitman, sustained a good examination in Virgil, Racine and Geology. The essays read and the pieces spoken, are deserving of favorable notice. At the close of the examination, the pupils presented their teacher with an elegant edition of Smith's Bible Dictionary, as a token of their regard for him, and their appreciation of his instruction. Not absent or tardy during the year:—Emeline Guerney, Emma K. Hayes, Ellen E. Sherman, Kate Vining, George R. Loud, Webster P. Loud. Summer term:—Abbie L. Barrows, Honora E. Early, Minerva Howe, Emma C. Maxwell, Emma T. Richards, Hattie C. Torry, Clarence W. Fearing, Frank E. Howe, Frank W. Loud. Fall term:—Abbie L. Barrows, Sarah F. Vining, Frank E. Howe, Wallace E. Lovell, David V. Poole. Winter term:—Emma E. Lewis, Ellen E. Sherman, Clarence W. Fearing, Hervey B. Reed, William W. Smith.
